

Free Environmental Law Workshop - Nowra

The Environmental Defender's Office (NSW) is conducting a practical, plain English workshop on the law and how it can be used to help protect the coastal environment. The workshop will focus on the main environmental and planning laws that affect coastal communities, including biodiversity, pollution, heritage and sea level rise issues.

All participants will receive a free copy of the new EDO publication Caring for the Coast: A guide to environmental law for coastal communities in NSW.

When: Wednesday 23 June 2010

Time: 3:00pm to 5:00pm, afternoon tea and refreshments will be provided.

Venue: Shoalhaven Ex-Servicemens Club,
Junction St, Nowra

RSVP: Please call (02) 9262 6989 or email education@edo.org.au to register or for more information.

CARING FOR THE COAST

A GUIDE TO ENVIRONMENTAL LAW
FOR COASTAL COMMUNITIES IN NSW

CARING
FOR OUR COUNTRY

